

Family Fun Day

on First Sundays

FREE ACTIVITIES FOR FAMILIES

SUNDAY MARCH 4, 2007 • 1 - 4 PM

Mission Inn Museum: Save My Place-Bookmarks

Books take us almost anywhere we want to go—the past, the future, far away places, outer space and places unknown. Come and make your own special bookmarks to save your place in books that you are reading.

Riverside Public Library

Celebrate the World: St. Patrick's Day

Erin Go Bragh! Are you feeling lucky today? Come hear our storyteller Karen Rae Kraut spin the Irish tale "The Woman Who Hated Housework" under the Magic Tales Tent at 2 and 3 pm. You can make a tricky leprechaun puppet (complete with gold!) at the craft tables.

Riverside Art Museum: Japanese Scrolls

In honor of Sendai, our sister city in Japan, we will be creating Japanese Scroll Paintings. .

Sweeney Art Gallery:

Performance by Ting-Ting Chang
Bring the whole family for a relaxing day out on the Main Street Pedestrian Mall. The Sweeney Art Gallery is proud to feature the art of contemporary Chinese folk dance performed by Ting-Ting Chang, Ph.D candidate in dance history and theory at UC Riverside.

UCR/California Museum of Photography:

Temporary Cities

This activity is based on the work of Cuban artist Liset Castillo known best for her series of work focusing on the Los Angeles freeway system constructed out of sand. Participants will get a opportunity to build their own collaborative sand city that will be documented by UCR/CMP volunteers with photographs for participants to take home.

Riverside Metropolitan Museum:

Asobi~Play

Asobi means play in Japanese. In March the Riverside Metropolitan Museum will be celebrating Japanese culture with a new exhibition of traditional clothing and textiles. On the First Sunday kids will have the opportunity to try on kimonos, learn to eat with chopsticks, make origami and play with common Japanese toys.

COMING MAY 6!

Come join us for Target Day of the Arts: all activities will be relocated to Fairmount Park on Market Street. In addition to our regular hands-on activities, there will be food, dozens of performers, the Philharmonic, and more.
